Why CNB Bank?

‘To CNB, or not to CNB, that is the question. Well, it’s not as difficult as Hamlet’s decisions. If you are looking for Intelligence, Experience, and Customized Solutions, this is the right community bank for you.’

Meet Joshua Householder, CNB Bank’s Senior Vice President / Chief Banking Officer.

Josh holds a B.S. in Business Administration from Mount St. Mary’s University and an MBA from Shepherd University. He is a graduate of Barret School of Banking, ABA Advanced Commercial Lending School, RMA-ECU Commercial Real Estate Lending School, RMA-ECU Advanced Commercial Lending School, RMA-ECU Commercial Lending School, and the West Virginia School of Banking. With 17 years of experience in the banking industry, Josh brings a wealth of knowledge to the team.

Josh is very active in the community. In 2013, he was awarded the Lt. Gen. William John Van Ryzin Award for outstanding leadership in the United Way of the Eastern Panhandle. He is the current Board President of the Jefferson County Chamber of Commerce, Board & Fundraising Committee Member of Hospice of the Panhandle, and an Associate Member of the Eastern Panhandle Home Builders Association.

Josh is a former Chairman of the Board of United Way of the Eastern Panhandle as well as Campaign Chairman and Executive Committee Member. He was a founding member and steering committee member of their Emerging Young Leaders group, now Emerging Leaders United. He was a former board Member and Chair of the Business Development & Marketing Committee for the Jefferson County Development Authority.

In his free time, you’ll find Josh spending time outdoors with his family where they enjoy camping, kayaking, and hiking—but don’t forget the coffee. Josh is a coffee enthusiast and can almost always be found with a cup in his hand.
